ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ANNUAL ENCAMP-

MENT AT INDIANAPOLIS.

THE OLD SOLDIERS WILL MEET IN ONE MONTH -A NEW RULE FOR THE ADMITTANCE OF

MEMBERS PROPOSED-VARIOUS

ITEMS OF INTEREST. In less than a month from to-day the delegates chosen to take part in the Twenty-seventh National Encampment and thousands of other comrades will have assembled at Indianapolis, the city which witnessed the birth of the Grand Army of the Republic as a National organization of November 20, 1866. Commander-in-Chief A. G Weissert, in Genera Orders No. 11, just issued, directs that the Grand Army delegates and others entitled to enter the encampment shall meet in Tomlinson's Hall at 10:30 a.m., September 6, 1803. The annual parade will take place on the day preceding, September 5, at 10 Directions as to the formation of the column and the movement of the several divisions will be given in future orders. National aides de-camp wil report on arrival at Irdianapolis to the senior alde de-camp, Colonel David S. Brown, of New-York, at the Denison Hotel, for instructions. Colonel Brown will have charge of the mounting and formation of the aids in the column, and will detail such assistants as may be necessary. The Commander-in-Chief and personal staff will in the National headquarters train, which will leave Milwankee on September 4, reaching Indianolis at 5 p. m. the same day. The National Counci where the National headquarters will be established at 8 p. m. on September 5. A conference of Grand Army chaplains will be held on Wednesday, September 6, at 10:30 a. m., in the Monroe County Courthouse. Room 31. Railroad rates, the National Commander assures his comrades, will be as low this time as at any previous encampment. He is also in the possesof satisfactory information that the arrangements being made for the entertainment of comrades and their friends at Indianapolis by the general committee of citizens are judicious and ample. Indianapolis is within easy reach of a majority of the soldier population of the country. Every visitor will be carefully cared for, and a large assemblage of veterans and citizens is confidently expected.

A new departure as to the admittance of appli-cants for membership is to be proposed in the National body at Indianapolis which will provoke much dis-cussion. It is embodied in a resolution which has been prepared by Past Commander T. G. Korony, of W. S. Hancock Post, No. 259, of this city, a deleof W. S. Hancock Post, No. 259, of this city, a delegate from this department, and will be offered by him in the National Encampment. It proposes to fix the year 1895 as the date for refusing further applications for membership, after which the books of the Grand Army shall be closed, and no more candidates mustered in, except in cases where a dispensation is granted by the Department Commander or the Commander in Chief. mander-in-Chief.

Those who favor such a radical amendment to the constitution of the order sustain the proposed measure on the ground that during the thirty years which will have passed since the formation of the Grand Army abundant opportunity has been allowed to all who desire to become members, and it may be con-cluded that these who are then still on the outside have no Intention of coming in. Careful estimates show that 400,000 or 500,000 men who served during the war for a greater or less term are not upon It is argued that if these men are made to realize that they must become members within the next two years or be barred perpetually from ad-mission and from the rights and privileges which pertain to Grand Army membership the great majority of the eligible will present their names at once. Some comrades believe that such an amendmnt will more than 50 per cent to the total in less than

The Commissioner of Pensions has written a letter on the subject of purging the pension rolls in which he makes the gratifying admission that he does no believe that there are many veterans who are drawing pensions dishonestly. He defends the recent aspending a large number of pensions allowed ander the Act of June 27, 1890, saying that the action was taken, not because of any discovered or suspected fraud on the part of the claimants, but because it was found that the Pension Bureau had, by the adoption of an erroneous rule for adjudication, allowed many pensions not authorized by law. has reference to ex-Assistant Secretary Bussey's decision which granted pensions on account of dis abilities under the act named. But Commissioner Lochren does not explain why he deemed it lawful or right to suspend the pensions of aged veterans, many of whom are over eighty years of age, because they had not shown that they were unable to gain a support by manual labor. Hereafter the bureau will demand evidence of the credibility of witnesses to affidavits taken in cities of 20,000 inhabitants or over.

Comrade Kiliaen Van Refisselaer and other founders of the Grand Army Mission in Canal-st, deeply regret rency with which to cash the checks of pensioners receiving their quarterly payment last week. It has been their custom to do this ever since the mission was started, and the scheme resulted in immense advantage to those receiving pensions; for it kept them from the degrading influences of the barrooms whose proprietors have been in the habit of cashing the checks, expecting that the old soldiers would spend a large percentage of their income in what the liquor-keepers have to sell. Unfortunately, currency at $25 per $1,000 premium, owing to the financial upheaval, came too high for the mission treasury to lay in a stock. The consequence was that the liquors in the neighborhood of the United States Pensio Agency in Canal-st. have had things their own way during the last few days, and have reaped an oldtime harvest. The mission people hope to make different arrangements in time for the next pension payment in November. Colonel F. C. Loveland, the United States Pension Agent, also hopes to be able to cash pension checks at his office hereafter.

Inquiries from all quarters are pouring in upon Past Commander John W. Werner, the organizer of the Union Repevolent Association connected with Kersweil Pest, of Flatbush, asking for information as to the purposes of the association, and the success the project is meeting with. In speaking about it yesterday, Comrade Werner said:

"From present indications our society is to become a popular ore. The officers as yet are but temporary, and in about two weeks we expect to hold a large meeting and elect permanent officers. We are much encouraged by the apparent interest our comrades in the city are displaying in the matter, and shall be only too happy to welcome all who can become

It is expected that the law proposed, which was acted upon, to insure to veterans of the War of 1861-1865, who are properly qualified, the preference is appointment to office under the Government and retention in public employ, will receive a strong indorse-ment from the National Encampment. The bill was drawn by Past Commander Joseph W. Kay, of

EDWARD KEATING'S POISON FATAL. POLICE AND HOSPITAL AUTHORITIES DISAGREE

AS TO THE CAUSE OF DEATH. Edward Keating, who fired a shot from calibre revolver at Mrs. Ida Dougherty, of No. 12 Ditmar-st., on Saturday, because she refused to marry him, and then swallowed a dose of "Rough on Rats," died early yesterday morning in St. Catherine's Hospital. Keating was attended by Ambulance Surgeon Mooney, of St. Mary's Hos-pital, who, after administering several antidotes, prenounced him out of danger. Policeman Barnard, of the Twentieth Precinct, then took him to the station-house, where he was locked up or a charge of intoxication. Sergeant Conklin was in charge of the station when Keating was brought in. An entry was also made on the blotter that the prisoner had attempted suicide by swallowing The case, however, was not reported to Police Headquarters until 9 o'clock, when Sergeant Col-lins, who had relieved Sergeant Conklin, found Keating ill in his cell. A call was then sent to St. Catherine's Hospital, and Surgeon Thompson responded and told the sergeant that there was othing serious the matter with the prisoner "He is only suffering from an attack of alcoholism," said the surgeon, "and will be all right in a little while."

While Thompson was talking with the sergean a telephone call from Police Headquarters the ambulance to go to Scholes-st., where a man had been assaulted. At 11 o'clock the ambulance returned to the station-house, and at the request of the sergeant Keating was taken to the hospital, where he died three hours later. The sta-tion-house blotter says that death was due to alcoholism, while at the hospital it was said last evening that death had resulted from poison.

GERMANS HOLDING A FESTIVAL.

The annual festival of the Brooklyn Platt leutsche Volksfest Verein began yesterday at Ridge wood Park, and will continue during the week Delegates were present from societies in Brook lyn, New-York, Hoboken and other places, and about 5,000 people attended the ceremonies of the opening day. Ridgewood Park was all in a flutter with banners and flags and white dresses, and there were bands playing and processions marching, and white aproned waiters doing juggling feats with pyramids of beer glasses and long-necked bottles of Rhine wine, and all the fun and frolic, music and mirth which always accompany the big German festival. The programme for the week includes a great variety of races and athletic sports, contests of skill at shooting, a beauty contest, and in the evenings fine displays of fireworks.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN. John Donahue, of No. 121 Huron-st., a driver the Greenpoint and Myrtle-ave, street-cars, was ar rested Saturday night charged with criminal negli gence in driving his car over four-years-old Lizzie Sullivan, of No. 375 Hudson-ave. The child's leg and ankle were badly hurt, but she was not fatally njured. The accident occurred at Myrtle-ave, and Prince-st.

The Rev. Dr. Kerr B. Tupper, of Denver, Col., addressed the meeting of young men held in the lecture-room of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday afternoon. The Association or chestra furnished music.

The Rev. J. B. Nies, rector of St. Chrysostom's preached a timely and vigorous sermon yesterday morning on the business and financial disturbance through which the country is passing.
